SATURDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 13.

HEROES AND HEROINES .- We have observed with admiration the heroic conduct of the physicians of Jacksonville, and those who have gone there, during the ravages of the yellow fever. They have been faithful in the performance of their duties to the sufferers, and have stood their ground, regardless of danger, ready to obey every call for their services. In this respect, and in every other, they have been true to the responsibilities of their profession and to the Hippocratic oath. Their conduct has not been exceptional among the people of Jacksonville. The hospital nurses and private nurses have stuck to their posts, at which not a few of them have fallen. Others are deserving of equal commendation, as is known to everybody who has read the dispatches from Jacksonville. It told that almost every landlord in Jacksonville had remost every landlord in Jacksonville had re-fused to collect rents from the poor since the outbreak of the plague. It told of the little news carrier, Willis Travis, who, though all his mates have sickened and many died, trudges over his route and who, when warned of his danger, answered, "Pil go until my own time comes." It told of the intrepid milkman, who, against the en treaties of his family keet, up, his visits to treaties of his family, kept, up his visits to infected houses until he fell a martyr to duty. infected houses until he fell a marty to duty, saying, "The patients must have their milk." It told of the action of the Free Masons, who, in their grateful address to the Masonic fraternity, give notice to stop contributions to their fund, as it is already sufficient to relieve the brethren in all the infected districts of Florida. Truly, the people of Jacksonville have had a long and terrible period of trials but it is a comfort to know that amid trials, but it is a comfort to know that amid them all there have been so many noble dis-plays of manhood and womanhood.—N. Y.

THE GOOSE POND OF GOSSIP -One of our famous essayists says: "We are apt to won der at the scholarship of the men of three centuries ago, and at a certain dignity of phrase that characterizes them. They were scholars because they did not read so many things as we. They had fewer books, but these were of the best. Their speech was noble, because they lunched with Plutarch and supped with Plato. We spend as much time over print as they did, but instead of unconsciously acquiring the grand manner of supreme society, we diligently cover this continent with a net work of speaking wires to inform us of such inspiring facts as that a horse belonging to Mr. Smith ran away on Wednesday seriously damaging a valuable carryall; that a sen of Mr. Brown swallowed a hickory nut on Thursday; and that a gravel bank caved in and buried Mr. Robinson alive ou Friday. Alas, it is we ourselves that are getting buried alive under this avalanche of earthly impertinences! It is we who, while we might each in his humble way he helping our fellows into the right path, or adding one block to the climbing spire of a fine soul, are willing to become mere sponges saturated from the stagnant goese pond of gossip."-Magazine of Ameri-

only the oldest paper in the State, but, with very few exceptions, in the country. Not withstanding the fullness of its years, it has kept, and will continue to keep abreast of the times in all that pertains to a news paper furnishing its readers daily with a perfect mirror of passing events, domestic and foreign. Its facilities for obtaining news as they increase are taken advantage of and used for the benefit of its readers, who are thus kept thoroughly posted as to all that is of interest politically, socially, financially and commercially. Special attention is given to matters concerning the State and its welfare, while its local columns contain all that is of the slightest interest to Alexandria. Its regular correspondence from Washington and Richmond are features of peculiar interest, as attested by the eager ness with which they are read and copied by other papers, while its editorial depart ment, conducted with reference to the best interests of the city, State and country, will continue to advocate what is believed to be right, just, honest and patriotic. With a view to the interests of merchants, farm ers, and all interested, its commercial columns are carefully edited and its market reports are acknowledged by all to be faithful and accurate. Through all this section of the State and in all parts of the country where Virginians have located, there will the GAZETTE generally be found, and thus as an advertising medium it has few equals
